

January 19, 2012

Good evening everyone. Well we had a good day- it started out a little rough- they were quite talkative during circle time but the constant reminder that today was treasure box was enough to get them in control.

I have to say that I am very proud of them for the way they behaved with Pastor Kevin. Today they all sat still and paid attention and I did not have to correct or move anyone so please let them know how proud I am of them. If anyone would like to donate treasure box items we are always accepting them :)

Next Tuesday, January 24th is the only day that we will have school next week. It will be our fun "Pajama Day"- we will be doing a number of fun things like an obstacle course and making our "popcorn pets" as well as putting on a movie to enjoy. If your child has a stuffed animal or pillow pet that they would like to bring in and cuddle up with during the movie it is fine to send them in that day- if not then please don't worry about it-

We are still working on our cutting skills and they are getting much better at them but please continue to work with them at home on this skill. The more practice the better and remind them that the thumb is on top, fingers on the bottom- some are still turning their hands upside down and we want to make sure that we correct this.

They are all doing a wonderful job of coming in and tracing their names every morning and once again remind them and show them the correct way to hold a pencil- you "pinch" at the bottom not hold it like a club.

Like I mentioned before practice makes perfect :)

Have a great weekend and I'll see you on Tuesday

Ms. Jodi
